

Love of Lesbian 2022 U.S. Tour in Los Angeles

MUSIC
LOS ANGELES

Fri, March 25–
Sun, March 27, 2022

Venue

The Belasco, Los Angeles & House of Blues, Anaheim

View map

Credits

Organized by LiveNation, Industria Works, Warner Music Spain and Panda Artist Management.

The Spanish indie pop band Love of Lesbian returns to the United States for a tour in multiple cities.

LOVE OF LESBIAN IN CONCERT

- On March 25 at 7 pm. At The Belasco, 1050 S Hill St, Los Angeles. Buy tickets
- On March 27 at 7 pm. At House of Blues Anaheim, 400 Disney Way #337, Anaheim. Buy tickets.

Formed in 1997 in Barcelona, Love of Lesbian's album La noche eterna. Los días no vividos was nominated at the 2012 MTV Europe Music Award for Best Spanish Act and reached number 1 the same year.

The band is formed by Santi Balmes (vocals, guitar and keyboards), Jordi Roig (guitar), Joan Ramon Planell (bass and synthesizer) and Oriol Bonet (drums and programming). The original band features two more members, Julián Saldarriaga (guitar and voice) and Dani Ferrer (keyboards and voice), in live concerts.

Since forming in 1997, Love of Lesbian have become one of the most influential indie pop bands in Spain. It's easy to hear why—the multitasking five-person band produce supercharged tracks that are made to fill stadiums. Frontman Santi Balmes' deep, arresting vocals hit hard, working in tandem with spangly guitars, fast-paced percussion and quirky synthesiser notes. While their sound can be compared to US acts like Gin Blossoms and R.E.M., the band seamlessly blends this global style with Spanish instrumentals and meaningful lyrics.

—Apple Music