

'39 Defaults'

This new theater piece, performed in living rooms in New York, explores trust in an era where hospitality meets surveillance.

39 Defaults is a must-see: smart, brilliant, and reticent,

Franco Baldasso, Nueva York, 2012

A Spanish political activist arrives in New York and meets Liz, who invites him to her apartment. Ricard has defrauded 39 banks in Spain. He claims this is not a crime, but a general call for financial disobedience. 39 Defaults explores trust in an era when hospitality meets surveillance, and idealism confronts daily necessities.

Fifth Wall is a theater company founded with the goal of global collaboration, performing in different languages and styles in order to foster a new relationship with our audience. The fifth wall invokes the audience not only as spectator, but as the integral creative element within the work, and therefore essential to the creative process.
