Bebo Valdés is Cuba's most influential figure. He left Cuba in the 1960's and it was thanks to reedman Paquito D'Rivera that Bebo had a musical revival with his album Bebo Rides Again. From that time forward, he enjoyed praise for records such as Juntos Para Siempre, with his son Chucho, El Arte del Sabor, Bebo de Cuba, and Lágrimas Negras. Honoring Valdés' centennial, two young women pianists of today's contemporary latin jazz scene, Glenda Del E and Ariacne Trujillo will reimagine and interpret Valdés' music.
