

PEN World Voices: New Plays from Spain

On the occasion of the 2013 PEN World Voices Festival of International Literature, we welcome seven of Spain's most respected Spanish dramatists to the Segal Center.

The US-Spain Playwrights Project aims to initiate and foster the development of collaborative relationships between contemporary playwrights from Spanish and American ensemble theater companies based in or around New York City.

Playwrights will travel to New York to preside over readings of their works in English. With artistic director Julian Mesri, these readings offer insight into the evolution of Spanish identity and culture in the context of its current situation. An anthology of the plays in translation will be published by the Martin E. Segal Theatre Center.

Playwrights include Ernesto Caballero, Guillem Clua, Cristina Colmena, Mar Gómez Glez, Borja Ortiz de Gondra, Alfredo Sanzol, and Emilio Williams.

PERFORMING ARTS NEW YORK

Mon, April 29–
Tue, April 30, 2013

Venue

Martin E Segal Theater, The CUNY Graduate Center, 365 5th Avenue, New York, NY 10016

View map

Admission

Free to the public. Staged readings start at 2 pm until 10 pm.

More information

Venue's website

Credits

Organized by the CUNY Graduate Center's Martin E. Segal Theatre Center, in collaboration with the Fundación Autor, Instituto Cervantes NY and Spain Culture New York.