

Robot by Blanca Li

A 90-minute upside down trip through a magical, topsy-turvy world in which everything becomes its other: the human dancers become robots, and the robots dance like humans.

Imagine a ballet where NAO robots and humans dance to Maywa Denki's mechanical musical orchestra, whose instruments double as witty art installations. Brimming with good-natured humor and emotional insight, this startling international hit by Blanca Li—who has collaborated with the Paris Opera Ballet and the Metropolitan Opera and choreographed films for Pedro Almodovar, videos by Beyoncé and Daft Punk, and Jean-Paul Gaultier's runway shows—is an upside-down trip through a magical, topsy-turvy world in which everything becomes its other. Human dancers become robots and robots dance like humans in a fantastical trip into the future.

a very powerful visual show filled with stage effects, playful choreography and pungent humor
