

TimesTalks: Pedro Almodóvar, Adriana Ugarte and Emma Suárez

Pedro Almodóvar, Ariadna Ugarte and Emma Suarez interviewed by The New York Times contributor Logan Hill as part of TimesTalks.

Come see the internationally acclaimed Academy Award and BAFTA-winning film director Pedro Almodóvar (Women on the Verge of a Nervous Breakdown, All About My Mother, Talk to Her, Volver, The Skin I Live In) and the award-winning stars of his latest film, Julieta, Adriana Ugarte and Emma Suarez.

In Julieta, based on short stories by Alice Munro, the director explores his signature themes of love, sexuality, guilt and destiny through the poignant story of Julieta, who has a chance encounter that stirs up sorrowful memories of the daughter who abandoned her. Don't miss that opportunity to hear them talk about their work and their new film with New York Times contributor Logan Hill.
