

Re:NEW Festival

A month-long celebration of creative recycling, transformation and sustainability in Pittsburgh, featuring an international Drap-Art exhibition.

As Pittsburgh experiences a resurgence and addresses continuous, equitable improvement, this collaborative new festival reflects the city's forward thinking arts and culture, creative industries, and sustainable technologies.

Festival visitors will witness the North American premiere of Drap-Art, the International Festival of Recycling Art, held annually in Barcelona, Spain. This premiere in the PPG Wintergarten will set the stage for diverse programs all month long: exhibits in alternative venues, music showcases, eco-tours, markets featuring upcycled goods, hands-on workshops, education, films, performances, and environmental exhibits.

ABOUT DRAP-ART

Drap-Art, based in Barcelona, showcases accomplished international artists who create provocative and compelling art from reused materials. Having exhibited across multiple continents for 20 years, Drap-Art will host its North American premiere at the Re:NEW festival in Pittsburgh.

Featuring group exhibitions of art and design made from repurposed materials; interventions in public spaces; discussions and panels; an artists' market; hands-on workshops; and performances, Drap-Art Pittsburgh will be a month-long celebration in the PPG Wintergarten in Downtown Pittsburgh, opening September 9, 2016.

Drap-Art's recent Barcelona showcase attracted 10,000 visitors to experience artists, musicians, educators and designers –all promoting environmental and sustainability ideas through artistic expression.
