The 25th edition of San Diego Latino Film Festival screens a large selection of films from Latin America, Spain and the United States.

Media Arts Center San Diego established San Diego Latino Film Festival 25 years ago, initially as a student film festival focusing on works by Latinos and/or about the Latino Experience. Since then, the San Diego Latino Film Festival has developed into one of the larger and well-respected Latino film festivals in the nation, where over 3,880 films and videos from across Latin America, Spain and the United States have been screened.

The wrongly-termed Spanish Civil War (1936-1939) left more than a million dead and over 500 thousand refugees, of which some 20 thousand are taken in by Mexico. Among them were the filmmaker's grandparents, parents, aunt, and some of their friends. A tragedy of epic dimensions that turned into the eventful stories of survival and assimilation by the subjects, recalling their experiences and revealing the shared history between Mexico and Spain in the 20th century and beyond.
