

Inner Borderlines at George Mason University's 2022 Spanish Film Festival

FILM
WASHINGTON, D.C.

Wed, November 02, 2022

Venue

Merten Hall, 4441 George Mason Blvd,
Fairfax, VA 22030

View map

More information

George Mason University

Credits

Presented by the Department of Modern and Classical Languages of George Mason University with the support of the Cultural Office of the Embassy of Spain in Washington, D.C., and Pragma.

The Department of Modern and Classical Languages of George Mason University presents the “Spanish Film Festival” running Sept. 7-Nov. 2 and screening 5 contemporary films in Spanish language from around the world.

The Spanish Film Festival presented by George Mason University runs from September 7 until November 2, closing with the Spanish film Inner Borderlines. The festival presents five different films in Spanish language from five different Spanish-speaking countries: Chile, Colombia, Argentina, Mexico, and Spain.

INNER BORDERLINES – VISIONS OF AMERICA THROUGH THE EYES OF ALEJANDRO MORALES

- On Wednesday, November 2 at 5 pm.
- Directed by Luis Mancha, Spain, 2014, 72 minutes.
- In English with Spanish subtitles. Watch trailer.
- Introductory conference by Prof. Vivancos-Pérez.

This documentary follows Chicano writer Alejandro Morales around Southern California as he explores Spanish heritage in the United States and a variety of topics, including history, immigration, race relations, education, gender, border, and borderlands.