

Spanish Cinema Day 2023: Embrujo

On the occasion of “Spanish Film Day,” the Cultural Office of the Embassy of Spain in Washington, D.C. screens the classic film “Embrujo” by Spanish director Carlos Serrano de Osma.

October 6th marks the third edition of Spanish Cinema Day (Día del Cine Español), an event that aims to vindicate the importance of the Spanish cinema as a cultural heritage, as a generator of a common identity and imaginary. Events and actions are organized during a day –both in the Spanish territory and internationally– that celebrate the richness and diversity of Spain’s cinematography and highlight the work of its professionals.

EMBRUJO (BEWITCHMENT)

- Directed by Carlos Serrano de Osma, Spain, 1947, 80 minutes.
- In Spanish with English subtitles.

Manolo discovers in Lola not only the great artist that everyone falls in love with,

FILM
WASHINGTON, D.C.

Thu, October 05, 2023

Venue

Former Residence of the Ambassadors of Spain, 2801 16th St NW, Washington, DC 20009

View map

Admission

Free, RSVP required

Credits

Presented by the Cultural Office of the Embassy of Spain in Washington, D.C. in collaboration with AECID.

but also an obsession, a love that transcends the limits of reason and that will make him fall from grace. After her success, Lola is hired to export Flamenco art to some of the biggest cities of the world. Lola's success will find its parallelism in Manolo's failure and surrender to alcohol. But the feeling that Manolo has left in Lola is too great and will make her return to Spain to rediscover his obsession.